THE COLORS OF THE AUTMNN

Walking in Villa Ada over the weekend really relaxes me. I stay on the open air, seeing the changing nature and its colors, so that the leaves become droopy slowly burgundy, confirming a change of climate, air and sensations. The beginning of autumn is indeed an extraordinary sight: I love to aim this beauty that is not artificially produced, and that creates an authentic joy to my eyes. For a day like this, my look is very comfortable: linen shirt, pants five pockets; with me my iPad to be ready to remain in contact with the outside; but rarely do it when I'm here. I prefer to be alone to watch the change, which is the breath of life, energy, strength. I prefer to miss the green, collect my thoughts and transcribe them, to be more than ready to face the metropolis, that a few meters skirts the villa.
